Hazel Green Academy.

Hazel Green Academy will remain in Hazel Green, and will be kept up to its high order among the schools of the state. Prof.
Wm. H. Cord, as principal, and an able corps of assistants, will insure to the people of Eastern Kentucky, the continued success of this Academy. No one need have any doubt as to the future; simply patronize this—"the cheapest and best school in Eastern Kentucky"—and the future will take care of itself. Besides an efficient force of teachers for the class-rooms, there will be ample arrangements for boarding, and every effort will be put forth to make the session beginning Tuesday, September 11th, the best session in the history of the institution. Hazel Green Academy has sent out more than three hundred public school teachers, well qualified, during the last ten years.
These teachers hold among the best certificates and have charge of some of the best public schools in the mountains. There have been twenty-five graduates from this school since June 1895; and the graduating class of 1901 will be large.
Besides the regular academic work there will be classes in the Ministerial and Business courses, and a Bible Institute will be taught by Prof. B. C. Deweese, of Lexington, in November.

Hon. W. O. Mize, one of the founders of the academy, will present two elegant gold watches in June 1901, to the young man and woman who make the best records as pupils during the session. Mr.
Mize has also set apart $500, the income of which is to be used from year to year, as a gift to the young man or woman who makes the best record as pupil. This is to be known as "The W. O. Mize gift" to H. G. Academy.

The fifteenth session will begin on Tuesday, September 11th, and continue till June 5, 1901. If you want to know more about our academy, ask any citizen of Hazel Green, or write for catalogue to the principal.

The Farm Journal is choke full of gumption and has the largest circulation of any farm paper in the world. It is good everywhere. We offer it in connection with our paper to advance paying subscribers, that is both papers at the price of THE HERALD; our paper one year, and the Farm Journal nearly five years (remainder of 1900, and all of 1901, 1902, 1903 and 1904,) both for 65 cents.
Pay in advance—that's all.

Why send away from home for pianos, organs, sewingmachines, buggies, &c., when we can and will save you money, and goods will be first-class. We sell direct from factories and save you the jobbers profit, which is always big enough.
We will repair your sewingma-chines, watches, clocks, &c., in first-class style and at reasonable prices.
We can astonish you in prices on fine bibles, picture frames, watches, jewelry, etc., etc. Kindly soliciting the patronage of Wolfe and surrounding counties.

Mail orders shall have special attention. When answering this advertisement, say you saw it in the HAZEL GREEN HERALD. I am Very truly,
J. T. GEVEDON,
Hazel Green.

Written for THE HERALD. A SOLDIER'S DREAM.

A soldier in the Philippines,
Just at the close of day,
In a low and husky whisper Was plainly heard to say:
"I know that she is waiting In our home so far away,
For my return, a glad reunion;
Yes, I'm going home to stay."

"I've fought a hard, hard battle, I've seen my share of all,
And now to wife I'm going,
To either rise or fall;
In life's own hard struggle Where many a man has failed,
And lost his high ambition, Though I have never quailed."

"I have oftentimes sank and wandered From the path of bright delight,
But I never more shall do it; I'll struggle with main and might For a cause considered greater Than one for love or gain, Where men shot and bleeding,
Have died to erase the stain."

"From our nation's own free history Where many a mortal name Has been placed in shining letters,
The heroes of the Maine,
Fighting for humanity,
Upon its golden plain,
The stars and stripes have floated, Never knowing shame."

"'Tis the same, same old story Of a nation's fleeting breath, Fanned to immortal vengeance
By those who are bereft,
Through a treacherous foreign nation,
Of a type, I dare not speak,
For fear of insulting The flag I've helped to keep."

"From stain—a nation's curse, Never has been its lot;
But glory, vast immortal, Supplanting sin's dark spot.
Oh! may it wave forever
In these isles far o'er the sea,
When at home I'm resting With my babes upon my knee."

"Yes dear wife, the transport's coming, Coming far, far o'er the sea,
To take me home to mother,
To mother dear and thee;
Now he silently kisses a photo—
A face, both near and dear
To the soldier who stood watching For the transport to appear."

"That would take him to God's country, There to find both peace and rest
Among the hills of old Virginia,
With the ones whom he loved best.
But alas! 'twas only dreaming,
The sad dream of life anew,
Of a soldier in the Philippines, Clad, in honors blue."

"Not yet, 'he smiled,' perhaps not ever,
For tomorrow I must fight;
Another of war's hard battles,
No matter wrong or right;
So wife, a few months longer, Perchance 'twill all be well,
And I can once more greet you, Mid flowers upon the dell."

"Where we oftentimes strolled together, When sweethearts, tried and true, Telling tales of fond affection
To each other—I and you.
We were happy, then, as children During the merry month of May, Straying wild among the flowers, Ne'er tiring of their play."

"The morning came with blackness, Darkened by the cannon's roar,
Soldiers fighting hard for freedom;
Bleeding, dying, mid life's red gore.
Mid the field's fierce struggle, Came one painful, dying gasp
Of a soldier who had fallen On war's dark and gloomy path."

"Will you tell her I died fighting, Formost here among the brave?
I had dreamed of a fond reunion,
But alas! 'tis broken by the grave."
In his hand he held a picture,
The same he held the night before,
And smiling faintly, he kissed the photo
As his soul passed through death's door."

In an old Virginia homestead,
A wife and child did wait For the father, hero, soldier, Ne'er dreaming of his fate Till a comrade who had laid him In a grave far o'er the sea, Told them of the father's dreaming
And his death, enslaved to free.

QUINN'S OINTMENT FOR HORSES

stands at the head of all veterinary remedies. Such troubles as Spavins, Curbs, Windpuffs, Splints, Bunches have no terrors for a horse if the master keeps and applies Quinn's Ointment. All well known horsemen speak of it in the highest terms: Miller & Sibley of Franklin, Pa., owners of St. Bel, brother of late Bel Boy, write, "We have used Quinn's Ointment with great success and believe it fills all claimed for it. We heart-fully recommend it to our friends." For Curbs, Splints, Spavins or Bunches it has no equal.

FINE SHOES

I have just received the finest line and greatest variety of

LADIES' AND GENTS' BOOTS AND SHOES ever brought to the mountains, and having bought them before the recent rise in leather, I am prepared to save my customers money on every purchase they make. I want the ladies, especially, to examine my stock. For the price, I can show them a front-lace shoe that is a world-beater. It is, indeed, a beauty, and to the touch makes one feel that the shoemaker got hold of the kid-glove stock.

Respectfully,

JOHN M. ROSE.
